

Mixed flow pump ++

+ Product Introduction +

Mixed flow pumps are horizontal, single-stage, single-suction, volute-type mixed flow pumps. They are suitable for conveying clean water or other liquids with physical or chemical properties similar to water. The temperature of the conveyed liquid should not exceed 50°C. They are widely used in various applications, including farmland irrigation, industrial and urban water supply and drainage.

